

Dear Parents,

3/16/2020

As your children will be home for the next two weeks we wanted to offer some ideas of things that they can continue to work on.

- Read books with your child daily, talk with them about the story, ask them questions.
- Practice writing their name with them. Our students practice writing their name daily. Many are writing their first and last names from a model.
- Continue number practice: counting, recognizing numbers. Here are two links with math stories/songs:

https://www.youtube.com/results?search\_query=preschool+number+songs
- Continue letter practice: identifying letters, letter sounds
- If you have not already brought in your March family project - a building - you can continue to work on that.
- Continue talking with your child about different types of buildings, what buildings are in our community, building materials. There are many videos on youtube that show how buildings are made, buildings in our community, etc. Feel free to view with your child and talk with them about it. Here are two links with many online stories/songs based on the theme of "construction":

https://www.youtube.com/results?search\_query=preschool+construction+songs
- If you have playdough, blocks, legos, sticks, drawing materials, etc. your child can create buildings using these materials. Feel free to send us pics on Class Dojo!
- We have been practicing zipping our coats by ourselves. Please continue practicing with your child.
