About Me

This is my 20th year of teaching. I have taught primarily preschool, but dabbled a bit in Kindergarten for 5 years.

I have a passion for teaching and learning because of the great educators I had in my elementary years. I know and understand that education is important for all no matter which walk of life you choose. It is important to me to create lifelong learners who can thrive not only in their educational endeavors, but also their personal ones. Building a great foundation for my students is of utmost importance to me.

My Favorites
